Abstract: The International Society of Life Information Science (ISLIS) has sought scientific proofs of existence of wonderful phenomena and resolution of their principles, since the foundation of ISLIS in 1995. 24 symposia have been held and 24 issues of the Journal of International Society of Life Information Science (Journal of ISLIS), totaling more than 5,000 pages, have been published periodically, in these 12 years. The existence of many wonderful phenomena has been proved scientifically in these years; however, the principles have not been resolved. Therefore, about 150 participants, including a few Japanese Diet Members gathered at Hase camp in Nagano and held discussions on these and other matters. A variety of phenomena such as spiritual healing, qi gong, ayurveda, near-death experience, and supernatural phenomena exist which cannot be explained by modern science. The world view of each field was explained to the participants, and then discussions were held about these topics. Moreover, direct interactions and experiences in each field were offered to participants, such as various demonstrations of qi gong, therapy, etc. As an option, participants could also deepen their understanding about hypnotic therapy.

The first public presentation about an unknown episode and treasured photographs! "Circumstances of discovery of an energy spot" and "The mystery and charm of the Ina valley"

Takayuki MIYAMOTO

Director for Policy Evaluation, Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport
(Former Director of Dam Construction Office in HASE Village)
Producer for "Village of Qi and Healing" in HASE

Abstract: The writer who started for his new assignment in the office of Hase-Village in July, 1995 had known intuitively that this was "the valley of Qi energy" when he first viewed the nature of the Ina valley. After he investigated the essence of the Ina valley on many sides, he began to advocate a "wellness-metropolis design" that could use this energy. A specialist was engaged to find a good place and the energy spot in Bungui-Pass was found on July 2, 1996. The government of Hase-Village began to promote a village design for "Qi energy" immediately after the energy spot discovery. For the tenth anniversary of the discovery the author presents his photograph collection of the energy spot and his memories of the Ina valley mystery.

Reading of States of Qi

Yifan WANG

Master of Huichun qong

Reading of States of Qi is said to be "undulatory conversion to signals." This can be explained briefly: for example, how do you understand with television or radio? Television and radio are equipment which convert signals and sounds mechanically to a wave motion called an electric wave. This is "conversion to signals."

Various wave motions are flowing in the body. Examples are blood flow (pulse style), lymph style, and electromagnetic waves. When the author dreams, his dream is focused very clearly, completely like the picture of television. And he can see the dream pictures of others. The author calls this "Reading of States of Qi" which means his senses take in people's wave motions and this tells the picture which appeared so that a dream might be seen. The author cannot take in every wave motion of people's body. And picture controls also depends on tuition.

"The new view of the world in the 21st century" beyond "the scientific limit"

Takayuki MIYAMOTO

Director for Policy Evaluation, Ministry of Land, Infrastructure and Transport
(Former Director of Dam Construction Office in HASE Village)

Producer for "Village of Qi and Healing" in HASE

Science in the 20th century showed clearly that the world which includes all existence, transcends man's recognition power and reason. 20th century science also crossed the domain in which the so-called scientific explanation is possible. The writer will make predictions as follows about the civilization in the 21st century, quoting the language of his experience and the wisdom of ancient and modern ages.

(1) Man's consciousness feeling will evolve and come to have the new feeling with which reason and sensitivity are united.

(2) This new feeling will open up a new viewpoint, different from today's view of unexplainable matters and phenomena, including the action of the consciousness which can also demonstrate supernatural power, etc.

(3) This new feeling will build a "new view of the world" which transcends imagination of the old feeling.

Centre for Informatics and Sciences, Nippon Medical School
Vice-chairman of the Board of Directors, International Research Institute (IRI)
Abstract: Many phenomena, which are difficult to explain under the current ordinary science, are often related to human consciousness. Whether the origins of every consciousness exist in the brain or not, the closest organ related to the consciousness is undoubtedly the brain. So, the measurements of the brain must be useful to investigate such phenomena. Among many kinds of non-invasive brain measurements EEG is considered to be the best method for the consciousness study at this time as EEG measurement disturbs the consciousness state less than other methods. However, how can we select the essential information from the EEG data? More-over, what is the consciousness? How shall we consider the consciousness related to the brain structure? The author will try to discuss these questions using EEG data measured previously and recent findings in brain science.

Abstract:It has been recently confirmed by some of the newly advanced physics that the universe is harmoniously moving as a whole life, however in Oriental thought it has been intuitively understood for long period of time. Now, we should study the new way concerning how to develop the human potentiality and get an insight into the deep meaning in the new view of our world. Especially in my specialty field of psychotherapy we should find something better approach to overcome the shortcoming of the narrow clinical analysis to a clients. I like to present the holistic four dimensional encounter experiences as the better counselor training. They are meeting with others, self, the nature and the universe.

Tetsunari SAITO
Head, Qigong Therapy Laboratory
Abstract: The subject is a woman in her thirties who does not like exercises. The author, who is a qigong practitioner, taps an inexhaustible space energy at will ("gaiki-kou": the art of discharging qi at a subject) and is able to control the subject at his beck and call ("jihatsu-kou": the art of making a subject move spontaneously). He makes her exercise to build muscle while charging her with energy (qi). The subject falls down, sleeps, fights, and tries doing dances and martial arts such as Karate, Shaolin gong fu, and flamenco that she has never learned. The author shows the possibility of applying qigong to enhancement of physical ability, recovery from illness, and development of the brain and other abilities.

Mitsumasa KAWAKAMI
Head, Qigong Therapy Laboratory
Abstract: In 1999, the author, successfully unraveled how one's pain sensation can be controlled in his joint research with Dr. Erik Peper, Professor at the State University of San Francisco. In 2003, in his joint research with Dr. Ryusuke Kakigi, Professor at the National Institute of Research on Natural Science, the author conducted the world's first verification of controlled pain sensation by means of laser radiation using f-MRI and MEG, and their joint research paper was presented in 2005. In this time's session, the author makes a demonstrative presentation on how one's thought and awareness effects a change in one's brain so that that a control of one's pain sensation may be recognized.

Seiko FUNAKUBO
Dental surgeon, Director of Ounan Dental Clinic
Abstract: Trauma experienced as a fetus or a newborn, etc. causing friction in human relations and various other indefinite complaints, bad memories accumulated in a soul from the remote past, and messages from a pure soul inside oneself are often represented by ultra-faint thought and awareness waves radiating from humans and their possessions including their photographs. By transferring frequency of these thought waves and energy to others, the cause of one's chronic disorder is often determined and one's new self may thus be rediscovered. In this time's session, a demonstrative presentation of a channeling therapy is scheduled..

Abstract: We have got quite effective results for our patients' health by using Kyomei-kikou therapy. We utilize a patient's energy of life information which is energy of the patient's body and life field, and the patient's aura, akashic record, , soul, spirit, and previous existence, and unknown elementary particles we named Y- particles. From these, we adjust the patient's invisible life energy by touching and feeling to give positive health benefits.

Yutaka MAEDA
 Society for Mind-Body Science, Subtle Energy Association
 Scientific Study Group for Human Consciousness

Abstract: Existence of "miscellaneous mysterious phenomena" caused by latent ability of unique human beings has been observed scientifically. Some opinions have been proposed as the principle or the mechanism, but they are not always able to explain all phenomena.

In this presentation, a new multidimensional universe which contains space-time and consciousness is proposed as a hypothesis: "Cosmology of Consciousness-Science". It can explain miscellaneous mysterious phenomena approximately without contradiction. As a specific example, the time-transgressive phenomenon which contains prophecy is explained by the hypothesis.

Abstract : Since 1962, Umite (visitors from the planet UMMO) have sent many letters to ordinary Spanish people. These letters included high-level scientific ideas, and some papers about MHD (Magnetic Hydro Dynamics) and Cosmology, were accepted in first-class Scientific magazines. The letters also included metaphysics based on Umite science. Proofs of the existence of Spirits and group consciousness, the mechanism of telepathy, and true architecture of the Universe, were explained. The letters claimed the necessity to change the fundamental way of viewing the Universe. Thus, their ideas may help to understand unsolved phenomena.

Abstract: The so-called hado measurement machine uses a person in the role of a sensor to make measurements. Based on our practical activities until now, we ask and try to answer the following questions. What are relations between the measurement machine and the measurement person? What kind of meaning does measured numerical value have? What kind of way of making use of it is there? Abstract: Acupuncture has been used as an important therapy for various diseases in the East Asian medicine from ancient time. Recently scientific evidence on effectiveness of acupuncture has been collected, and acupuncture use in Western countries has expanded in a short time. Acupuncture is expected to be applied for several nervous system disorders. This time the author presents the possibilities of acupuncture to enhance cell proliferation in the brain that he has investigated and he describes improvement from consciousness disturbance and muscle spasticity of central nervous system disorders.

systems, consciousness and brain Teruaki NAKAGOMI
Faculty of science, Kochi University
Abstract: In this talk, the author describes quantum monadology from the three viewpoints: systems, consciousness and brain. A system that a physicist deals with is cut out from the whole universe dependent on his arbitrary choice and itself can be subdivided more. The brain as a neuro-network is such a dividable system, and consciousness cannot exist in it, because consciousness is an un-dividable unity. Understanding consciousness requires the concept of monad as a proper system which is not defined by any division of the world. Quantum physics has a structure in which an arbitrary division of the world is not allowed, which has an affinity to the concept of a monad and leads us to quantum monadology. If the brain has consciousness, it must be a coherent quantum machine as well as a classical neuro-network machine.

What Do We Think to Exist in Paranormal Phenomena?

Hideyuki KOKUBO

Institute for Living Body Measurements, International Research Institute

Abstract: It is said that there are many kinds of paranormal phenomena. However, several phenomena are given quite different names from various viewpoints. The reasons are due to historical/cultural backdrop and tastes of a person, not only complexity of the phenomena. The author deals with some examples and discusses their ideas and concepts.
